The Palladium

Dear Mike,

Shiel Sexton has enjoyed the working relationship with J.R. Clancy for the past two years to construct The Palladium, a world-class musical entertainment venue. As the Construction Manager, we have been extremely pleased with your professionalism and attention to detail beginning with submittals, continuing throughout construction and completing with successful commissioning.

Your full-time onsite project manager, Bridget Cox, provided excellent control for a very diverse scope of theatrical equipment work. The various equipment locations were in all areas of a complex building layout. Her schedule accuracy and urgency were vital to maintaining our aggressive completion date. Logistic plans were developed in a manner that maximized safety, production efficiency and coordination.

J.R. Clancy demonstrated the ability to truly control all aspects of their work and coordinate very well with other contractors in an extremely challenging construction environment. I highly recommend J.R. Clancy for stage rigging systems and theatrical stage equipment work. Shiel Sexton looks forward to working with you again on future challenges.

Thanks again,
